

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The image display device according to the present invention includes a master display unit and slave display units which respectively display a plurality of pictures that coincide in positions on a projection screen, where the master display unit is equipped with a generation unit that generates an on-screen picture, and the slave display unit is equipped with an erasure unit that erases the portion of the video in a display region corresponding to the on-screen picture.

100450-409300